RepliFa aims to challenge the well-established Eurocentric fashion system. It questions authority at a fundamental level, including Philosophy of the body, the modes of representation, and the historical forces that have subtly shaped the way people understand garment.

With over 8 years of experience in wearing and researching traditional Chinese Han ethinicity's garment, the designer(Len Ma)’s understanding of authentic Chinese aesthetics goes far beyond clothes. It extends to traditional architecture, pattern, accessories, and the broader rituals contexts behind. Grounded in rigorous academic knowledge, this understanding forms the foundation of the designer’s practice.
